

The Guide to Preparing a Witness to the Resurrection

People are generally fascinated with death, not their own, but that of others. Facing death can be challenging, but as Christians we can face death with hope because of the resurrection. For many, death is not to be feared but the process of dying is what people fear. For Christians, death simply is part of the process of living and we believe that eternal life can happen now, even before we die physically. In theology we call this the “already and not yet” of eternal life. Jesus speaks to Martha, the sister of Lazarus, in John chapter 11 about this kind of eternal life when he says,

“I am the resurrection and the life. Those who believe in me, even though they die, will live, and everyone who lives and believes in me will never die. Do you believe this?”

She said to him, “Yes, Lord, I believe that you are the Messiah, the Son of God, the one coming into the world.”

In the same way that Jesus tells Martha he already is the resurrection, and also the one coming into the world, we too are already saved by the work of Jesus Christ on the cross and able to experience eternal life now as well as in the life to come.

One of the best ways to face death is to talk about it and thinking through what one would prefer for his or her final memorial. The Guide to Preparing a Witness to the Resurrection and form can help individuals and families have that conversation, no matter what your age. As a pastor, I have found that thinking ahead and putting one’s desires about such things in writing is a gift to the family in a time of grief. Making decisions without having had such conversations can be difficult and even conflicting for some family members. To already have thought about the not yet, prevents the potential for additional grief during an already difficult time for most families.

Your pastors, session, and diaconate, appreciate you taking the time to work through this guide and make what decisions you can at this point in your lives. For some it is a document to begin and file at the church and home and come back to at a later date. For others it is timely and helpful to begin thinking about what may be on the horizon or the sunset. If you would like a pastor to speak with you about any questions you may have, please do not hesitate to contact one of us. We are here for you and welcome your questions and conversations.

Blessings!

Guide for Preparing
A Service of Witness to the Resurrection

The service on the occasion of death is both a thanksgiving to God for the life of the deceased and a witness to the resurrection of Jesus Christ, in whom we too can have eternal life. It is both a public expression of our faith in Christ and an illustration of our solidarity as a Christian community. All services conducted by pastors of the church are services of worship for the community of faith. While the form of services may differ, each is a Service of Witness to the Resurrection of Jesus Christ, celebrating the victory over death made manifest by God's act of raising Jesus from the dead. The Presbyterian Church (USA) Book of Order states:

The resurrection is a central doctrine of the Christian faith and shapes Christians' attitudes and responses to the event of death. Death brings loss, sorrow, and grief to all. In the face of death Christians affirm with tears and joy the hope of the gospel. Christians do not bear bereavement in isolation but are sustained by the power of the Spirit and the community of faith. The church offers a ministry of love and hope to all who grieve. (W-4.10001)

Because it is difficult under emotional stress to plan wisely, the session encourages members to discuss and plan in advance the arrangements which will be necessary at the time of death, including decisions about the Christian options of burial, cremation, or donation for medical purposes. These plans should provide for arrangements which are simple, which bear witness to resurrection hope, and in which the Christian community is central. (W-4.10002)

This Guide for Preparing A Service of Witness to the Resurrection is offered to enable thoughtful planning for the worship of God at the time of death. Such planning is often a comfort to family members of the deceased and provides for suggestions that relieve others of wondering what the deceased's desires were concerning final things. Your pastors also appreciate knowing your preferences about practical considerations as well as your service suggestions about Scriptures and hymns in particular.

Do you not know that all of us who have been baptized into Christ Jesus were baptized into his death? Therefore we have been buried with him by baptism into death, so that, just as Christ was raised from the dead by the glory of the Father, so we too might walk in newness of life. For if we have been united with him in a death like his, we will certainly be united with him in a resurrection like his.
